

EXPERIENCE POINTS

In Role Playing Games (RPGs) like Dungeons and Dragons, it is important to develop your own character to play as. Here are steps to begin creating a starting character, using the D20 (20 sided dice) that you got as a gift today.

1. Start by generating a name for your character and choosing your alignment, note it under abilities).
2. Then, roll your dice 8 times, and record the numbers you roll on the back of the character sheet.
3. Drop the two lowest numbers that you rolled, and record the others in the Strength, Dexterity, Constitution, Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma attribute blocks.
4. You can then fill in your modifiers and additional stats, based on the species that you choose. (Use D&D books).
5. Consider what your character's back story would be. This would get filled in on a longer character sheet. But, can be noted on the back of the short form.
